EDUCATION

Hospitality Business Administration
CSHG — Santiago de Compostela, Spain (2012 – 2016)

Hospitality management associate degree developed with guidance from École Hôtelière de Lausanne and accredited by Universidade de Santiago de Compostela.

PABLO AGIS

Hospitality technology professional working across hotel operations, SaaS implementation, and online distribution. Seven years running front office operations in London (UK) and Barcelona (Spain) then customer-facing onboarding and adoption work on the vendor side. Hands-on with PMS, channel management, and OTA distribution, both as the user and as the person configuring it.

Currently consulting independently on revenue and distribution systems for an independent operator.

Looking for roles where understanding the hotelier is the job, not a nice-to-have.

REVENUE & DISTRIBUTION SYSTEMS CONSULTANT

Jun 2026 – Present

Independent Hospitality Consultant
Pontevedra, Spain

- Advise a 25-unit operator on pricing, distribution, and commercial performance across two sites with opposing seasonality.
- Reactivated a dormant channel manager integration the owner was already paying for, and manage OTA distribution and rate parity across Booking.com and Airbnb.
- Built an AI-assisted pricing tool combining demand signals, and minimum-stay logic to replace manual rate decisions.

SOFTWARE IMPLEMENTATION SPECIALIST

Jan 2026 – Apr 2026

HubOS
Barcelona, Spain

- Owned onboarding and go-live across multiple hotel accounts, from kickoff through to sustained product adoption.
- Delivered customer-facing training to hotel teams adapting operational workflows to new hospitality software.

PROJECTS

InterviewMind a live product I built and shipped. An AI trained strictly on my verified professional history, so anyone can chat intead of reading my CV. No programming background: I defined requirements, directed the tooling, debugged and validated the output. The hard problem wasn't the code, it was making the agent refuse to invent things it's gated by a 40-case hallucination eval suite that runs before any release.
